SKU: PWAZVC

The windswept archipelago of the Azores in the mid-Atlantic is one of the world's most unique wine regions, recognised by Unesco in 2004. Vine s have been planted here since the 15th century. The Azores Wine Company is a project between winemakers Filipe Rocha, António Maçanita and Paulo Machado who have worked together to revitalise old vineyards and use combination of traditional and modern winemaking techniques to present these treasures to the world.

Another remarkable wine from Portugal's most unique winery, located on the windswept volcanic mid-Atlantic Azores islands. This is produced from 100-year-old Arinto dos Açores, Verdelho, Alicante Branco and Boal vines located stone's throw from the ocean. Powerful and broad yet intensely mineral with ever evolving aromas of dried orange, beeswax, smoke, marzipan and brined olives
