

LA COLLA ROUGE

SKU: FRLCR

Andy Cook has been living and working in the Roussillon for nearly 20 years, seduced by the lure of sun, sea and some of the most affordable old vines in France. He is one of the talented winemakers behind leading winery Mas Cristine. The delicious, low-intervention La Colla wines are completely his own work, hailing from the rocky southern Mediterranean coast in the Cotes Catalanes subregion of the Roussillon. This region runs from Maury right down to the border with Spain, and the vines Andy works with are perched on the steep rocky hills cascading into the sea around the picturesque towns of Banyuls and Collioure.
